Wants U.S. to Gamble for Peace

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Foreign Secretary Paul Martin of Canada called on the United States today to risk as much in a gamble for peace in Vietnam as it has risked for war.

The appeal took on additional importance because it was made in the presence of 14 foreign ministers in the Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk spoke after Martin, but a conference source said he did not respond to the Canadian's statement.

"The time has come," Martin said, "to risk as much in gamble for peace, and we know it would be a gamble, as has already been risked in ever-widening attempts at a military solution."

Martin offered Canada's "unrestricted help" in the execution of any useful formula for ending the war.

Rusk and Martin have had two meetings on Vietnam in Brussels this week and are expected to have another Thursday before they both leave for home.

The ministers were meeting today to consider prospects for making NATO a forum for the exploration and coordination of plans for getting along with the Soviet Union.

Money Tree Is Legal Tender

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — After 23 Christmas seasons in a local finance company's window, a "money tree" was seized Monday by the Secret Service because it held "reproductions of legal tender."

The play-money on the tree, about one-third the size of a dollar bill, was imprinted with a skinny George Washington wearing glasses, inscribed with the words, "this certificate is not worth a cent," and signed by "Oscar Zilch and Harry T. Zilch, stenographer."

The Secret Service office in Dallas explained that it is Second-class rates, covering newspapers and magazines, will go from 1 cent to 1.1 cents next year under the minimum rate, then to 1.2 cents in 1969 and 1.3 cents in 1970.

This legislation also includes a provision to ban any more hiring of relatives by congressmen, federal judges, postmasters and other federal officeholders.

The $4.1 billion spending-cut proposal approved by the Senate is an outgrowth of the hassle earlier in the session between the White House and House Ways and Means Committee. REPUBLICAN WOMEN NAME NEW OFFICERS Delightful Christmas decorations were seen throughout the home of Mrs. Lynn Harris where thirty were present for the December meeting and Christmas party of the Hempstead County Republican Women's Club on Thursday night, December 7th. Assisting Mrs. Harris as co-hostess in dispensing hospitality was Mrs. Marian Holder.

From the dining-room, refreshments of assorted Christmas cookies, fruit cake, nuts, coffee and punch were served. Mrs. Frank Ward poured the coffee from a silver service and Mrs. Leon Prescott served at the punch bowl.

The guests then assembled in the den for several card games conducted by Mrs. Clarence Geist and Mrs. T. O. Porter, with prizes going to Mrs. Lynn Harris, Mrs. J. W. McRoy and Mrs. Haskell Jones.

The 1968 officers of the club were next installed impressively by Mrs. Elmer Wagner. They are: Mrs. Leon Prescott, President; Mrs. Clarence Geist, Vice-President; Mrs. Paul Rawson, Secretary; and Mrs. Ed Aslin, Treasurer. The President conducted a very short business session, after which she presented on behalf of the club a wedding gift to Mrs. Curtis Boyd (nee Helen Hatch).

OPEN HOUSE AT LYNN HARRIS HOME

Open House at the home of Mrs. Lynn Harris on Tuesday, December 12 was a treat for the eye at every turn. The spacious new home in the Westwood Addition had large wreaths on the twin front doors, and guests were greeted by Mrs. Harris and co-hostess, Mrs. Paul Rawson.

Inside, many different kinds of decorations were used tastefully. The dining table was covered with a green felt cloth trimmed with white felt Christmas trees. A large candle surrounded by small colored ornaments formed the centerpiece. Spiced tea, coffee, and a wide assortment of Christmas delicacies were served.

Among the unusual items be-decking the room were many kinds of "trees," including one of styrofoam balls, a tiny toothpick tree sprayed white, a large flat tree-shaped wall decoration made of soft drink bottle caps, and the traditional green tree with colored lights. Choir boys made from small magazines were seen on the mantle, and a renovated, small organ was an attraction in the living room.

Friends calling during the afternoon exchanged pleasantries, viewed the lovely house, and got into the spirit of the season.

30TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Foster observed their 30th wedding anniversary with a dinner at the top of the Rock Club in Little Rock on Saturday, December 9. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Anthony, Jr. of El Dorado, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bowman of Little Rock, Miss Lisa Braden and Vincent Foster, Jr. of Nashville, Tennessee.

CHRISTMAS DANCE AT COUNTRY CLUB

"Robin Hood and His Merry Men" played for the Christmas Dance at the Hope Country Club on Saturday, December 9. About 200 enjoyed the evening of dancing and friendly conversation in a setting enhanced by a white flocked tree placed high on the ledge of indirect lighting and trimmed with red satin balls. Red and green streamers with gold bows were on the doors and windows, and a Della Robia was over the mantle.

During the evening smoked turkey and ham, assorted breads, a hot cheese dip, and other snacks were served from a table centered with a silver epergne which held red carnations and red candles. Host couples were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Archer, Jr., Jack Reynard, Creighton Middlebrooks, and Ralph Emerson.

MISS ELLIS HONORED

Miss Janet Ellis, popular bride-elect, was honored Saturday, December 9 with a luncheon at the Heritage House. Mr. Sam W. Strong and Mrs. Leonard Ellis were hostesses.

A white and gold theme was carried out in the luncheon table. Three crystal epergnes were arranged as nosegays with white daisies interspersed with sprays of golden fern. Leather-leaf fern and English ivy trailed the table's length with white and gold and silver ribbon streamers. Completed the table decorations, a giant-size replica of the wedding invitation was placed on a wall decorated with gold and silver ribbons.

Covers were laid for 15 guests. Mrs. Ellis was presented a white and gold corsage. Gifts of silver were presented by the hostesses.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Dear Helen: My daughter is out of her mind about a boy I have never met. She is only 16. Yet she wants to stay out till all hours.

I found some of my birth control pills missing last week. When I asked her about them, she said, "Of course I took them, and if you don't want me to get pregnant, you'd better buy me some!"

She won't bring the boy home, but spends most of her time with him and his wild crowd. I hate to think what they do.

I admit I've lost control of her. My question is, should I at least play it safe and give her The Pill?

Many mothers these days face this problem. What do they do? What would a doctor do if a 16-year-old patient said, "You can't talk me out of it, so make me safe."—A MOTHER WHO FAILED

Dear Mother: You aren't "playing it safe" when you give a wild 16-year-old The Pill. If you can't regain control, I'd suggest you consult a child guidance counselor who may recommend a good foster home. If you don't, pill or no pill, your daughter may end up in a correctional institution.—H.

P.S. What do parents and doctors do, who face this problem? Let's ask them and find out. Comments, any one?—H.

Dear Helen: I'm at an age when the obituaries and the stock market quotations draw my main attention. Now isn't it a shame that the newspaper pages which attract the oldest people are printed in the finest of indistinct types?

Likewise with instructions on geriatric medicines. If they want us to read them, they'll have to provide magnifying glasses with each bottle.

Maybe I'm like the complaining old party who said, "You can't win: when your hair recedes you have more face to wash," but it does irritate me that as our eyes get poorer, they make our print smaller. What say?—ANOTHER OLD PARTY

Dear O.P.: Really, the print isn't being made smaller.

It just seems that way as we grow older. Various types of magnifying glasses are now on the market just to aid this sort of reading.—H.

Dear Helen: I expect our two older children, 10 and 12, to make their beds on week-ends. School days, they just don't have time.

Without fail, our son, the 12-year-old, will ignore his unmade bed until I corner him in the late afternoon. Of course I could have done it fifty times over, but I don't want him to think if he leaves work, he gets out of it. He has very few other chores.

My husband disagrees. He says beds are "women's work." He was raised by a mother who waited on him and his five brothers hand and foot. Therefore he is completely helpless around the house. Outside of this little disagreement about chores, we are a very happy family. What do you say—S. E.

Dear S: I say children should make their beds EVERY morning, not just on week-ends, and by age 12, they should be pulling their share of other household duties. However, if "man's work" is the issue, you might trade the bed-making detail for a couple of hours gardening on Saturday—Which he really should be doing anyway, to earn his allowance.—H.

Yastrzemski May Eventually Wear a Cape

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Don't be surprised if one of these days, Carl Yastrzemski steps into a phone booth and emerges wearing a cape with a great big Y on his chest.

Yaz, the Triple Crown winner who led Boston to the American League pennant last season, has signed on with the Licensing Corporation of America, an endorsement merchandizer which represents Superman, Batman and James Bond, among others.

"It's a great honor to join them," grinned Yastrzemski when the fictional heroes were mentioned. "I just hope I can do as well as they do."

LCA plans to use Yaz to endorse everything from shampoos to stationery to sweaters. "We represent all the great heroes," said Allen Stone, president of LCA. "Yastrzemski fits right in with Superman, Batman and the rest."

Products bearing Yastrzemski's name should reach the market by next summer and to get an idea of the potential the endorsement and merchandizing field offers, Jay Emmett, chairman of LCA, pointed out that Batman's name had grossed $4 million in royalties over an eight month period. And he can't even hit home runs.

Yastrzemski, of course, can. He smashed 44 last year, drove in 121 runs and batted .326.

Vanderbilt's Short Six Posts Win

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Two years ago it was Rupp's Runtz. Now it's Skinner's Short Six.

Skinner's Short Six refers to Vanderbilt's college basketball team coached by Roy Skinner. Rupp's Runtz refers to the Kentucky team coached by Adolph Rupp which was beaten by Texas Western, now Texas, El Paso, in the final of the NCAA championship tournament for the 1966 national title.

Tom Hagan, a 6-foot-3 junior and one of the Short Six, canned a 20-foot jump shot with two seconds left, to give third-ranked Vanderbilt an 81-79 overtime victory over eighth-ranked Davidson at Nashville Tuesday night.

Seventh-ranked North Carolina whipped fourth-ranked Kentucky 84-77 at Greensboro, N.C., in the other major game involving teams in The Associated Press Top Ten.

Skinner's Short Six, Hagan, Bo Wynnandt, Bob Warren, Kenny Campbell, Perry Wallace and Gene Lockyear, average only 6-3 1/2, but they came from 12 points back to knock Davidson from the unbeaten ranks.

The Commodores rallied to tie the regulation game at 75-75 before winning in the extra period for their fourth straight. Hagan was high for Vandy with 21, including two field goals in the overtime. Rod Knowles topped Davidson with 22.

Behind at 51-53, North Carolina exploded to take an 11-point lead in the last eighth minutes and hand Kentucky its first defeat. Larry Miller's up-in put the Tar Heels ahead for good at 65-64 and Rusty Clark followed with several baskets to make it 71-64.

Clark's 23 points topped the Tar Heels, who played their best game of the season according to...

Ed Stoner's 23 points paced Yale over Brown 73-59 in an Ivy League opener. St. John's of New York also won on the road. The Redmen survived a late Rhode Island rally to edge the Rams 64-63.

Williams made it four in a row by beating Harvard 74-59. So did University of Pacific with a 63-61 squeaker over North Texas at Denton. Tulsa's Hurricane also upped its record to 4-0 with 68-56 victory over Lamar Tech as Larry Cheatham hit on 10 field goal tries without a miss. He finished with 21 points.

In other games, Michigan State beat Western Michigan 78-67. Baylor overcame New Orleans Loyola 88-75. Texas Tech defeated Oklahoma 74-67. Iowa State downed Northern Illinois 77-69 and Syracuse humbled the Georgetown Hoyas 95-78 in a game delayed for 39 minutes while police searched McDonough Gym in Washington for a bomb. None was found.

Bakken Has Scoring Title Locked Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Bakken of the St. Louis Cardinals appears to have the scoring title just about locked up in the National Football League with 115 points on 27 field goals of 38 attempts and a perfect score in extra points with 34 in a row.

Bruce Gossett, Los Angeles placekicker, won a year ago with 113 points.

Leroy Kelly, Cleveland's fine running back, has the rushing crown in hand with 1,143 yards and one game to go. Gale Sayers of Chicago, the 1966 champ, is seventh with 760 yards. The battle for the pass receiving title still is wide open. Charley Taylor and Jerry Smith, both of Washington, each has caught 62 passes although Taylor has 899 yards to Smith's 813. Willie Richardson, Baltimore flanker, has 58, to break the Redskins' 1-2-3 monopoly, but then comes Bobby Mitchell of Washington with 57 catches. Top yardage receiver is Ben Hawkins of Philadelphia with 1,167 yards.

Sonny Jurgensen of Washington still has the passing edge over runnerup John Elkus of Baltimore. In the standings based on percentage of completions, interceptions, touchdowns and average gain.

In other individual categories the leaders are Billy Lothridge of Atlanta in punting with a 43.9-yard average; Dave Whitsett of New Orleans with 10 interceptions.

Kidnapers Get 11 Blocks With Money

By KEITH HEARN
Associated Press Writer
GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — Two amateurish kidnapers held a banker's wife hostage for $80,000 but then settled for $50,000. Then, police said, they got only 11 blocks with the payoff.

A butcher and a cabinet maker were taken into custody Tuesday with the ransom money and the unharmed hostage, Frances Howe, under a blanket on the floor of their car's back seat.

When a quickly mobilized police detail halted the car, the armed men surrendered without drawing their pistols, officers said.

Mrs. Howe, 50, told newsmen that one of the kidnapers earlier told her "If everything goes well, no one will be hurt."

Booked on suspicion of kidnapping for ransom were Robert Sheader, 32, who said he is a cabinet maker, and Edson LaGrand Little, 26, who said he is a meatcutter. Police said both gave addresses in nearby North Hollywood.

As the two were being booked, Mrs. Howe and her husband, E. Frank Howe, related details of the two-hour ordeal.

Shortly after Mrs. Howe had gotten their 15-year-old son off to school, the doorbell rang at their $70,000 hilltop home in Glendale, a suburb northeast of Los Angeles.

"Two men with guns grabbed me and pushed me inside and told me they wanted money from my husband's bank," she said.

They commanded her to telephone the Union Bank's branch in nearby VanNuys where her husband is vice president. On the phone, Howe was told to put $80,000 in a specified street trash can "if you want to see her alive."

When Howe said that much was ridiculous, the caller suggested $50,000. The banker said he didn't even have that much.

"Take it from the bank," he was told.

"That's also ridiculous," Howe said. "How can I take it from the bank? I'll have to tell him and he and Brown had expressed concern about party leadership."

Catlett said the last meeting of the committee had been harmonious with the exception of a few members.

"It is felt by many that present progress of the party would not be improved by convening the body at this time," Catlett said.

He added that such a meeting might be worthwhile if members submitted suggestions "which will implement the constructive work now being conducted with the objective of assisting in this work."

Catlett Will Not Call in Democrats

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Leon B. Catlett, chairman of the state Democratic party, asserted Tuesday that the party's activities had received "heartily approval" and that therefore he saw no reason to convene the state central committee.

Catlett, a Little Rock lawyer, said he based this on communications received in the party headquarters.

He had been urged by Reps. Joe Hamilton of Harrison and Roscoe D. Brown of Jonesboro to call a meeting of the committee.

Hamilton had said the party was in a "precarious position" someone."

"Then tell somebody ... in case you think I'm not serious, I'll put your wife on the phone," Mrs. Howe told her husband shakily. "This is no joke. They mean it."

Howe called police, got the money from the bank, drove to the drop location and left the money in a paper bag. Some 50 police stalked out the location.

Reports WR, Board in Compromise

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Prison Board Chairman Jeff Wood of Cabot said Monday that the board and Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller reached a temporary compromise last week concerning the position of state prison superintendent, but Bob Scott, Rockefeller's aide on prison affairs, disagreed with Wood's version of the meeting.

Wood said Monday that the three Democratic appointees to the board had proposed that Thomas O. Murton, assistant superintendent in charge at Tucker be made the prison penologist and that a "qualified administrator" be made the superintendent.

Prison Supt. O. E. Bishop's resignation becomes effective Dec. 31.

Rockefeller has said he wants Murton, a trained penologist, to replace Bishop.

Wood said that if Murton was appointed prison penologist he would be able to plan the future of the prison. Wood said the superintendent would handle the day-by-day matters.

"We accepted Mr. Murton as a penologist if they would just give us an able administrator," Wood said. "His professional knowledge is all right but we kind of questioned his administrative know-how."

Murton has been in charge of Tucker Prison Farm since early in the year.

Scott, who attended the meeting, said Rockefeller suggested that a federal expert be recruited to aid Murton for six months.

Scott said Rockefeller met with Murton concerning the suggestion but Murton would not agree. Scott said Murton rejected the plan because he contended federal officials did not understand the Arkansas penal system and that the move would reflect a lack of confidence in him.

Birth Control Plan Offered by Shockley

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — Dr. William Bradford Shockley, who shared a Nobel Prize in 1958 for helping to develop the transistor, has proposed a sweeping birth control plan that includes temporary sterilization of all women and government approval before each baby.

The Stanford University physicist explained his plan in a lecture at McMaster University Monday night and also accused "inverted liberals" of blocking research into inherited intelligence differences between Negroes and whites.

The chief points of Shockley's birth control plan are these:

The public would first of all vote on the rate of population growth it wants. The Census Bureau would determine how many children each couple could have in keeping with the predetermined growth rate and certificates would be issued to them.

All girls would be temporarily sterilized by time-capsule contraceptives. When a woman and her husband wanted children, they would have the time-capsule removed by a public health agency on turning in one of their certificates. After the child was born, the contraceptive capsule would be reinserted.

Couples not wishing children or wishing less than they were entitled to could sell their surplus certificates on the open market.

Under this system, Shockley said, "only people who want and can afford children will have them."

The physicist also made a plea for research into racial differences. He urged eugenic studies related to the relative intelligence levels of Negroes and Caucasians.

"Let's ask the questions, do the necessary research, get the facts, discuss them widely," Shockley said, "then either worries will evaporate or plans for action will be developed."

In the case, Mrs. Weiss said "no." She told the defense attorney, however, that the defendants themselves could be an influence.

"What do you mean by that?" the attorney asked.

"My husband," she replied, "is a barber."

Witnesses Fire Volley at Hawkins

By GEORGE F. BARTSCH
Associated Press Writer

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP)—Attorneys in a taxpayers suit against Conway County Sheriff Marlin Hawkins fired the first volley Tuesday in a barrage of evidence with which they hope to shoot down the politically high-flying sheriff.

They bombarded Special Chancellor Bobby Steel of Nashville with testimony from 21 witnesses, 17 of whom had been arrested and jailed in Conway County for offenses other than those listed against them later in county records.

The 13 plaintiffs in the suit contend that Hawkins may have misappropriated as much as $162,640.84 in county funds between 1954 and 1966 by "carefully and systematically falsifying" the records.

Here's how the "scheme" is alleged to have worked:

A person would be arrested by State Police on a legitimate charge such as driving while intoxicated. The State Police would bring him to the county jail here, where, after he had been held for several hours, county authorities would permit him to post bond.

If the person decided later to forfeit his bond, someone, allegedly Hawkins, would cause false entries to be made in the transcript of the justice of the peace who would have heard the case had the motorist chosen to appear.

These false entries would list the charges against the motorist as something less than DWI — drunkenness and disorderly conduct, for example.

The entries would show that the motorist had been convicted of these charges and had paid a fine of perhaps $1 plus costs on each charge.

The minimal fines would be turned over to the county treasurer, and the normal costs would be paid to the deputy prosecuting attorney and the justice of the peace.

The plaintiffs contend that Hawkins then pocketed the difference between the amount of the bond and the total of the fines and costs, rather than refunding the money to the motorist.

The plaintiffs, represented by attorneys Richard S. Arnold of Texarkana and Oscar Fendler of Blytheville, allege that because of the difference in charges listed on the jail register and those recorded in the justice of the peace transcripts, a total of $240,640.84 in county funds can't be accounted for.

Arnold said that allowing Hawkins $6,000 a year for the fees paid to deputy prosecutors and JPs, it still would be impossible to account for $162,640.84 of the county's money.

The suit, which Steel be-trying Monday, contends that Hawkins should be required to show where the money went. If Steel holds that an accounting is called for, he will recess the trial for 30 days to give Hawkins and his attorneys—former Lt. Gov. Nathan Gordon and former Assistant Atty. Gen. Jack L. Lessenberry—time to prepare it.

If Hawkins is unable to account for the money, Steel then could require him to repay to the county all of the funds for which he can't account.

Most of the testimony Tuesday was similar to that given by Arthur Lee Foster, 56, a pipeline worker from Conway.

Foster said he was arrested and jailed in November of 1960. The jail register shows that the charge for which he was arrested was DWI.

Foster said he wrote a check for $80.85 to post bond after being jailed overnight. His check was introduced as evidence.

Foster said he had drunk only two beers, and that he had been told he could contest the charge in JP court if he wanted to come back to Morrilton several days later. He said he also was told that he might wind up paying a fine higher than his bond if he came back. After hearing that, he said, he decided not to come back.

The county's general ledger, in which the JP transcripts are recorded, shows that Foster was convicted in JP court of being drunk, disturbing the peace and speeding. There is no mention of DWI.

The ledger shows that Foster paid a total of $8 on the three charges, plus court costs and $3 for the State Police Fund.

Foster testified that he wasn't guilty of any of those charges, that neither of them had ever been mentioned to him at any time and that he hadn't appeared in JP court. He said, too, that he received no refund on the difference between the amount of his bond and the total of the fines and costs listed in the ledger.

Those who testified to similar experiences were Lewis M. Weir, 29, of Russellville, a restaurateur; James Donald Williams, 40, of Atkins, an unemployed furniture company worker; George R. Ison Sr., 45, of Little Rock, a pipefitter and welder; Bobby J. Williamson, 40, of Russellville, a telephone company house serviceman; Loy O. Taylor, 52, of North Little Rock, a material company foreman; Arthur Dunn, 46, of Yell County, occupation not given; E. L. Roach, 59, of Little Rock, no occupation given; Eddie Watts, no age given, of Little Rock, a meat packer; Robert L. Isbell, 49, of North Little Rock, a nursing assistant; Chester Boyer, 56, of Kenwood (Conway County), a floor sweeper at a cotton mill; Bill Kenneth Bland, 3, of North Little Rock, a construction worker; Troy Loyd, 57, a house painter, and Mrs. Loyd, 42, a manufacturing plant employee, of Damascus (Faulkner County); Louis Kelley, 48, of Atkins, a masonry worker; George such an active role.

There have been reports of such involvement in the past in troubled lands, but in the present case responsible policy makers say they have no doubt the information is true. Whether this marks the beginning of a new phase in Soviet foreign operations is yet to be determined, they caution.

The war in Yemen is between the Republican regime and Yemeni Royalist forces which took to the hills in September 1962 when the monarchy was overthrown. The struggle has been going on, with periodic eruptions of violence, for five years.

But two recent developments changed the political framework in which it has been conducted. President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt pulled out the last of his Soviet-armed troops, which once totaled around 70,000, as a result of a deal with King Faisal of Saudi Arabia. The deal was made necessary by Nasser's need for new financing following Egyptian defeats in the June war.

Nasser had backed the Republican government and Faisal the Royalist group. The result of Egyptian withdrawal was to create at least a partial power vacuum.

Also within the last month Britain removed its forces from Aden, giving way to a new native regime which proclaimed itself the "Peoples Republic of Yemen" on the ground Aden is really "South Yemen." Again the result has been to contribute to the sea's political uncertainty.

Church, 31, of Jerusalem (Conway County), a cotton mill employee, and Floyd Frazier, 72, of Fort Smith, a cattle trader.

Boyer is one of the plaintiffs. Three other plaintiffs testified, but only to establish that they actually are resident taxpayers in Conway County and thus eligible to file suit. They were L. Kohler O'Brien, 56, of Morrilton, a real estate broker who also has been serving as a nursing home representative for the state Welfare Department since Aug. 16; Walter Savage, 79, of Plumerville, and Troy Henley, 58, of Cleveland (Conway County), a turkey farmer.

Savage is retired, but his previous occupation wasn't given. Kohler was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for county treasurer in 1964 and for the Arkansas House in 1966.

Hawkins reportedly heads the political machine in Conway County. He was close to the administration of former Gov. Orval E. Faubus and is said to swing considerable weight in Democratic party politics.

Arnold and Fendler are expected to conclude their case against him Friday, when they call for testimony from Harry Freese of Little Rock, a certified public accountant with Russell Brown and Co. Freese examined the county documents and estimated the figures on which the alleged deficit is based.

The star witness in the case, former State Trooper W. O. "Jack" Stone, is scheduled to testify Thursday. Arnold said in his opening statement Monday that Stone would testify that he personally had seen Hawkins and two other men "carefully and systematically falsifying" the county records.

Stone now is a patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Little Rock.

Mrs. Verner McMurtrey, Hempstead County Extension Homemakers Council President, is shown giving a copy of the History of Home Demonstration Work in Arkansas to Mrs. Howard Prichard, county librarian. Mrs. Prichard stated that she was pleased to have the information for the library. The History will be put in the Arkansas section, and the public is invited to read the interesting accounts of how Extension Homemakers began and progressed in different counties in Arkansas.

May Defend Hershey Reluctantly

By STEPHEN M. AUG
ASSOCIATED Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department may eventually find itself defending in court an action by draft chief Lewis B. Hershey with which it disagrees.

The situation could result from several suits—the principal one filed by the National Student Association—challenging Lt. Gen. Hershey's recommendation that local draft boards strip deferments from persons who interfere with the inducting process. He urged the boards to declare such persons draft delinquents, making them subject to priority induction into the service.

It was this policy, announced by Hershey in an Oct. 26 letter to draft boards, that brought him into conflict with Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

Justice Department officials have said Hershey's proposal is both unconstitutional and contrary to Selective Service law.

The department is said to feel that if an individual is guilty of a crime such as destroying a draft card or interfering with the draft, he should be prosecuted in court rather than subjected to immediate induction.

The National Student Association, with campus units at 335 U.S. colleges, is seeking a federal district court injunction in Washington to prevent Hershey or local draft boards from enforcing his directive.

It also asks that all selective Service regulations dealing with classification of registrants as delinquent be declared unconstitutional. The association will seek a preliminary injunction Thursday at a district court hearing.

The department has, basically, three courses open to it.

— It could question whether the NSA is entitled to bring the case to court because it is not an individual who has been reclassified and therefore has not been injured by the Hershey directive or the law.

— The department may point out that a 1967 Selective Service Act provision requires that before reclassification may be challenged an individual must refuse to be inducted.

— Or the department could defend the Hershey memorandum.

Hershey said Tuesday night he has spoken his last word on the issue of how induction law violations should be handled.

He said in the future he'll refer all questions to a joint statement he and Clark issued last Saturday. The statement appeared to place draft law violations within the department's jurisdiction, making violators subject to court action rather than accelerated conscription.

Hershey refused to comment on a report that he and Clark still differ on policy despite the joint statement.

Greek King Would Oust Regime

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—King Constantine of Greece called on the eight million people of Greece today to help him oust the military regime and restore democracy and freedom.

His dramatic appeal raised the specter of civil war. As he spoke troops and tanks took up positions around key buildings in the capital, and the government radio declared the government was ready to defend itself.

The king's appeal was made by shortwave radio from Larissa, site of a large North Atlantic Treaty Organization base in central Greece.

It came shortly after reports circulated that the 3rd Armored Corps in Salonika, the major city in northern Greece, had rebelled against the military dictatorship.

The 27-year-old monarch declared the leaders of the coup April 21 were only a segment of the army.

"A spirit of revenge will not prevail," he said. "But I will not accept any disobedience from now on and it will be crushed mercilessly. There will be no compromise."

He referred to the Communist civil war of 20 years ago and reiterated his request to the people to assist him, follow him and support him.

Air force jets took to the skies and flew low over the city.

Armored halftracks with troops in full battle dress arrived at the Parliament building to reinforce the first units that surrounded the building. It houses the offices of the junta strongman, Col. George Papadopoulos, who led the military coup that overthrew the constitutional parliamentary government.

Soldiers also appeared outside the royal palace and around the national telecommunications center.

Critics Wish McCarthy Well in Campaign

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Non-congressional critics of Vietnam war policy are wishing Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy well in his challenge of President Johnson but most are shying away from publicly supporting the Minnesota senator's effort.

Nearly two weeks after McCarthy announced he would run against Johnson in at least four presidential primaries next year, only one member of Congress, Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., has announced he will work for the Minnesotan.

In the Senate, several fellow war critics made it known they might run as "favorite son" presidential candidates to provide a focus for antiwar sentiment in their states.

But one of these, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., quickly backed off and, with an eye to his own expected tough re-election fight, announced he would stay out of the presidential picture.

Another, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said he was seriously thinking of becoming a "favorite son" but only for one convention ballot. He said he expected his state's delegation to support Johnson after that.

In general, the war critics have taken the public stance that while they regard McCarthy's candidacy as healthy for the Democratic party, they plan to stay neutral.

They give at least three reasons for this position. "Ultimately," says Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., "the President has to be judged on his total record—not only Vietnam—and over-all I think the President has a tremendously impressive record."

A second factor in the thinking of the Vietnam "doves" is that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., despite his protestations of noncandidacy, may eventually wind up in the Democratic race as the major anti-Johnson candidate.

Recent polls on the presidential preferences of Democrats show Kennedy well ahead of Johnson.

One prominent House Vietnam critic, asking that he not be quoted by name, said recently that pressure on Kennedy to run is increasing sharply. "If Kennedy gets in," he said, "it would obviously be a different ball game."

Kennedy has said he would campaign for Johnson next year. But at about the same time, McCarthy entered the race and Kennedy loosed his sharpest attack yet on administration Vietnam policy.

The third and perhaps most pressing reason for the neutrality of the "doves" is that all concede McCarthy faces a distinctly uphill fight with minimal prospects of success.

"Most of us will wait and see if he gets off the ground," said Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., adding he expected to be supporting the President next November.

Congressmen and senators running in 1968 will have to calculate what effect opposition to the President would have on their own candidacies, both in spring primaries and the 1968 general election.

For many, the McCarthy candidacy has come as an unwelcome news, much as they hope it will have some impact on administration war policy.

Christmas in Appalachia

RICHARD CHURCH, officially a member of the poverty class, wants nothing more than a fire wagon for Christmas. It isn't much, but he probably won't get one.

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WELCH, W. Va.—(NEA)—A mile and a half into the hills off State Route 10 near here, 7-year-old Richard Church waits excitedly for Christmas Day.

He wants a fire wagon. "Boy," he says, "oh, boy. I can hardly wait."

Frankly, his wish is a selfish and impractical one. He needs other things worse. He needs shoes, for instance. He needs a haircut badly. He could even use a pair of stockings so that one might hang over the door Christmas eve.

But, then, a fire wagon is important to a boy, even a boy who has nothing else. And besides, shoes would hurt his feet, his hair would grow shaggy again, and a stocking over the door would very likely go empty.

So, a fire wagon. "Oh, boy!"

Will he get it? Probably not. Young Richard Church is one of the 34 million Americans who await the holidays this year under the official government pronouncement of belonging to the poverty class—that is, a member of a family whose total income is $3,000 or less each year.

In Richard's case, his family earns nothing each year. His father, an out-of-work coal miner, gets $121 a month from the welfare department, and that has to stretch over six kids, a mother and an old family dog.

Take two or three meals a day for eight mouths, the rent, the electricity, enough clothing to keep the chill away... and the rest of December's $121 may not cover a fire wagon, not even a cheap one, which is the only kind under consideration.

Richard's mother, Patricia, 35, says the family will definitely celebrate Christmas. She promises a tree, because they can be freely harvested from the immediate Appalachian hills. And she promises, with food-stamp aid, a good meal.

But a fire wagon? "Well," she shrugs, "we'll see."

Actually, young Richard Church understands the impossibilities here. And he tempers his wishes with knowing restraint. A kid who seldom gets anything he asks for is hardly an optimist. A kid like that is suspicious of hope.

And the boy is acutely realistic anyway. He knows full well the way it is. In his time he has had most of life's cold knocked himself out during a fit and hasn't returned to class since.

Today he seldom leaves his home, which is a half-century old, unpainted and almost unfurnished. Plastic sheets are nailed to the windows. The roof leaks. A stain of coal dust covers everything... including Richard.

His days are dreary and monotonous. Morning. Afternoon. Evening. All the same. Sleep. Wake up. Begin the whole thing over again.

Mostly, the boy plays with whatever is available, which isn't much. He runs around the rubble yard without shoes. He likes to dig the ground with sticks. He sits on the porch. There is an old, wretched television set.

"He don't do much," his mother says. "he needs something."

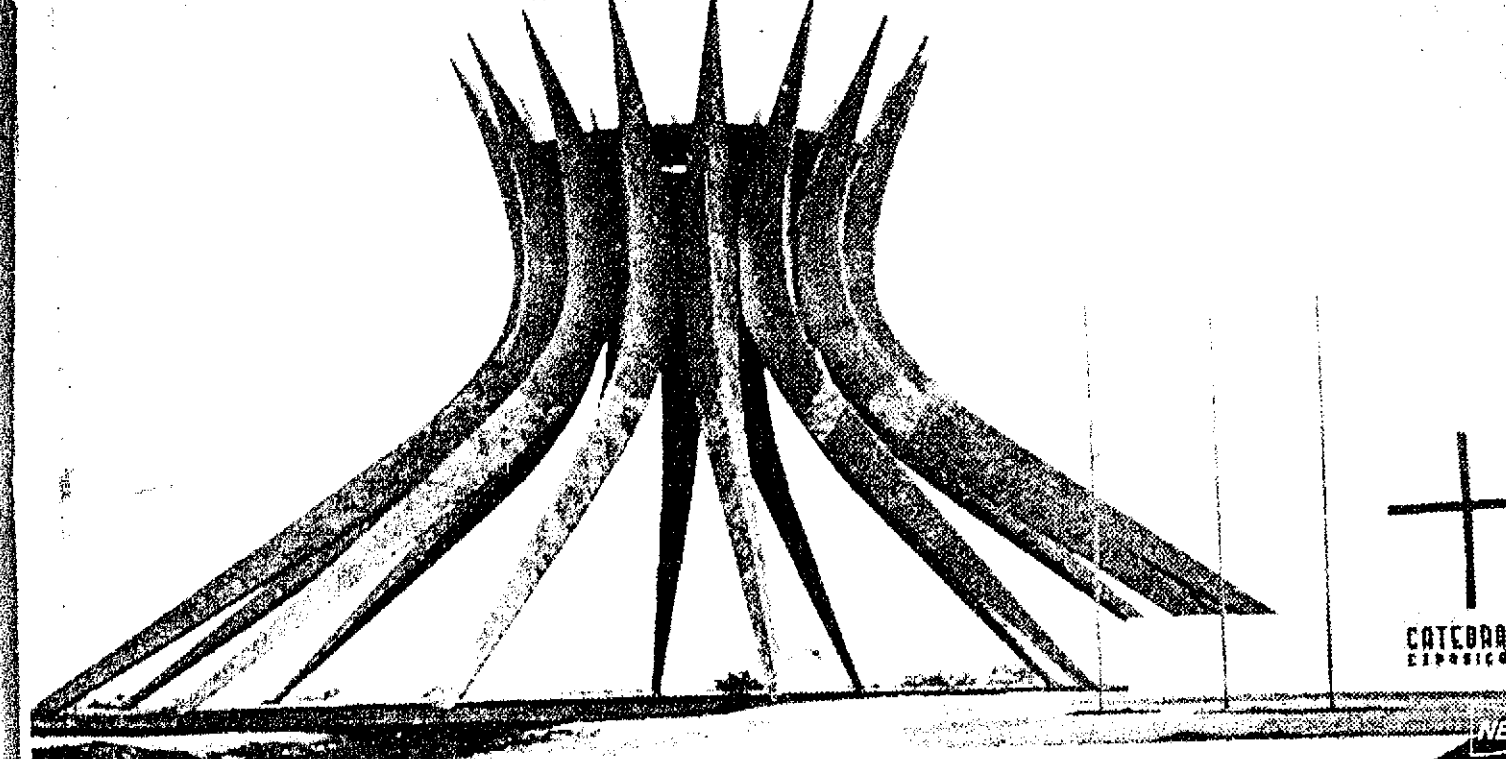

In truth, Richard Church needs almost everything. Medical attention, balanced meals, education, decent clothing. But as of now, this Christmas, there is scant possibility of this classic case of privation getting any of them.

Not even the fire wagon. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Safety Precautions For Ice Fishermen

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Although my idea of the way to enjoy ice fishing is to get a nice piece of fish out of the deep freeze, there are those, I am told, who prefer to go out on a lake that is frozen over, put up a canvas shelter, make a hole in the ice and fish for live perch. If you are one of those, you might as well learn the safe way to do it because every year preventable accidents occur.

Unless you have had experience in this sport you should wait until the ice is at least four inches thick before fishing through it. Don't drive your car onto the ice unless you are sure the ice will hold
it. Carry a long hook to help you pull yourself out if you should fall through the ice.
Beware of slush ice, ice that has turned dark in color, air pockets, expansion cracks or other signs of weakness in the ice.

Remember that a heavy snow early in the season prevents or retards the formation of thick ice. Remember, too, that the ice close to shore is often thinnest and therefore most dangerous. Dress warmly and quit before dark.

Q-What causes sinus trouble?

A-Sinusitis may be caused by an infection of the sinuses, an integral part of a head cold, an allergy, excessive smoking or the ever-present smog in many of our cities.
When two or more of these factors work together, they can produce a chronic sinusitis that is very hard to get rid of.

Q-What is Penitrate given for? Can you safely take it for a long period?

A-This is one of the matrates that is given chiefly to relieve attacks of angina pec-toris. Persons who need this drug can take it indefinitely under a doctor's supervision but it should not be taken by anyone who has glaucoma.

Q-What is intrauterine pneumonia? What is the cause of advanced degeneration of the placenta with fibrosis, hyalinization and calcification?

A-Since pneumonia means inflammation of the lungs, it can't be intrauterine. How was the term used?

During the course of a normal pregnancy, the placenta undergoes degenerative changes. These include fibrosis, hyalinization and calcification (replacement of pla-cental tissue by scar tissue, a peculiar albumenlike substance called hyalin, and calcium deposits. Most authorities now believe these changes, which occur in varying degrees in all placentas are of no clinical significance

Our Daily Bread

Sliced Thin by The Editor
Alex H. Washburn
Are They 'Achievements' If Not Paid for?

Your editor watched and heard President Johnson's TV-reported speech to the AFL-CIO national convention in Florida Tuesday. The first half was a politician's campaign plea for the continued support of organized labor, but in the last half Mr. Johnson aspired to the unworldly role of a statesman — and looked good in it, too.

Millions of Americans, like your editor, admire the President for his courageous position on foreign affairs, while berating him for ruinous policies on the home front. Tuesday's speech merely reinforced our conviction that he is right on one and wrong on the other.

Mr. Johnson laid foreign policy on the line in his talk to labor. We have a treaty with South Vietnam requiring us to protect her from aggression. America can not waver on that treaty without dishonor.

It's a mean war in Vietnam, the President continued, because we have to draw the line most carefully between defending South Vietnam and involving ourselves and the world in a much larger war.

I thought Mr. Johnson struck the high note of a statesman and a great national leader in this passage.

But the first half of his speech was less fortunate, soliciting votes among his friends and allies in organized labor. The President recited a long list of social benefits flowing out of federal policies — but he neglected to tell his friends that none of these projects has been paid for.

He didn't remind them, for instance, that the Government faces a loss operation in the current fiscal year of more than 19 billion dollars — or that the Government's debt is more than 300 billions and steadily climbing.

So, what he does as a statesman abroad is contradicted by what he does as a politician on the home front.

Broadly enough, the very speech he made to labor appealing for national unity in a moment of crisis only stirred up disunity among other millions watching and listening throughout the land.

Southern State Student Killed

MAGNOLIA, Ark. (AP) — A Southern State College student was killed Tuesday when a shotgun discharged as he was rummaging in the back seat of his car for his coat or a book, authorities said.

He was identified as Harvey E. Thomas, 21, of the Village community in Columbia County. The car was parked in front of the college field house.

Against Draft, Goes to Jail

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jerry Wayne Johnson, 20, of Poca-hontas reported Tuesday to begin serving a three-year term for refusing to submit to induction in the armed forces.

Johnson, a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, was found guilty Nov. 29 in U.S. District Court here. He reported to the induction center here June 7 as ordered, but would not step forward to submit to induction.

Ouachita Gets Cash for Project

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Glen Jerstad, state director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, said Tuesday that the anti-poverty law in Ouachita County would continue since the office has been funded by the federal government.

Jerstad said last month that the project might close down if the $25,000 program were not funded.

Congress in Okay to Pay Increases

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, clearing its decks of most major money measures and aiming for weekend adjournment, has okayed spending billions of dollars for government pay raises and to fight poverty while endorsing a $4.1 billion over-all spending cut.

Congressional action Tuesday included these developments: — Both Senate and House passed and sent to President Johnson legislation for a $5.4 billion, three-step pay raise affecting 5.5 million federal workers and servicemen. The legislation also includes a hike in postal rates, raising to 6 cents the cost of mailing a letter.

— The House passed and sent to the Senate a $1.61 billion appropriation bill for the Office of Economic Opportunity, $370 million less than Congress already has authorized for the anti-poverty program.

— The Senate passed and sent to the President a bill requiring most federal agencies to cut most spending by 10 per cent — a move designed to save $4.1 billion.

Today the House is to take up a Social Security bill that would boost all benefits by at least 13 per cent as well as hike Social Security taxes. The bill provides for minimum monthly benefit payments of $55 compared with the current $44.

President Johnson is expected to sign the pay-raise bill for government employees and servicemen in time for them to get by Christmas retroactive increases from last Oct. 1. Total cost of the raises by 1969, when all stages are in effect, is estimated at $5.4 billion. It would raise postal workers a 6 per cent raise, other government workers a 4.5 per cent hike and serv-

Says Education Revenues Low

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — W.E. Darby, chairman of the state Commission on Co-ordination of Higher Educational Finance, said Tuesday a battle over revenues between public school and higher education would serve only to set back education.

The state Board of Education has threatened such a confrontation between the educational forces.

Darby said he agreed that the state's vocational educational program needed to be accelerated but he said this should not be done at the expense of state-supported institutions of higher learning.

Darby suggested that to avoid duplication in building and staff that community junior colleges and vocational schools be merged.

When You Have Seen One Christmas Tree You've Seen Them All

By IAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — A tale for today:

As they had done for some decades, workmen at Rockefeller Center erected a 65-foot Christmas tree in the Plaza.

At dusk it was lit and cameramen came to chronicle the crowded ceremony for a nationwide television audience.

"Isn't there something odd about that tree?" asked an office worker hurrying toward the subway.

"What are you—a troublemaker?" replied his friend, "When you've seen one Christmas tree, you've seen 'em all."

But a lot of people murmured that the tree certainly did look "It's too narrow at the bottom," said one.

"No," said another. "It's just too wide at the top."

Then a little boy stepped up and shouted:

"I know what's wrong. They put the tree up upside down."

"Hush, Joey," cautioned his mother. "People will think you're being silly."

"But Mama," said Joey's lit-

Long Battle to Ban Nepotism in Federal Government Gains

By WILLIAM MORAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An Iowa congressman has won his six-year fight for passage of legislation to ban nepotism in the federal government — from the smallest post office to Congress and the White House.

Rep. Neal Smith, a Democrat serving his fifth term, says the power of federal officials including judges to hire relatives or get jobs for them in other federal agencies is unfair to other jobseekers.

"I don't think the government gets its money's worth when you have that sort of thing," Smith said in an interview.

"There are exceptions—some of these relatives work hard—but the bad overcomes the good."

Smith's antinepotism proposal was a rider to a bill raising the pay of federal workers and hiking postal rates. Congress passed the measure Tuesday and sent it to President Johnson, who's expected to sign it.

The measure will not affect relatives already working for congressmen and other officials.

The 47-year-old Smith's strategy in getting his rider through reflected an absence of enthusiasm for it in a Congress that, according to a recent Associated Press survey, includes some 50 members with relatives on their payrolls.

After it appeared his plan would die quietly in committee, he proposed it as a rider during routine debate on the postal-pay bill. Only about 80 of the 434 House members were on the floor and it went through.

Smith said some absent opponents of the plan weren't happy when they found out what he did. "But if they were interested in amendments they should have been there," he added.

Once the rider was in the bill, congressional sources said, it would have been embarrassing for any member to fight it.

"About half the relatives working in Congress do their work; half don't earn their pay," Smith said.

But the Iowa Democrat said his main concern was "widespread abuse" in the hiring of relatives by postmasters in small towns. In Iowa alone, he said, 111 postmasters have relatives on their payrolls.

"I don't know how many thousands of relatives there are in post offices nationwide," he said.

He said many people don't even apply for jobs in small post offices because everyone assumes the postmasters' relatives will get any job that opens up.

All were assigned to combat trafficking in narcotics and they had accumulated outstanding records as undercover agents. Morgensthan said the suspects' activities hit at the very foundation of the anti-narcotics program.

They were charged with having dealt in narcotics in the vicinity of the Supreme Court in Mineola, N.Y., on the streets of the Bronx and Harlem and in a Long Island motel.

The three city detectives, all of the narcotics bureau of the Police Department, were identified as Charles W. Kelly, 37, of Commack, Raymond R. Inip, 32, of Staten Island, and Marvin M. Moskowitz, 31, of Brooklyn.

Among them "the three had 25 citations for their work."

They were charged with "concealing, selling and facilitating transportation" of cocaine about May 19 of this year.

This reported involvement of Soviet Giers, using Soviet-made planes and supported by Soviet ground crews—is considered here to reflect Moscow's desire to establish power positions in the Middle East, once the exclusive domain of Western interests.

The possibility of Soviet fighter participation was raised a few days ago when a Royalist information minister said the body of a Soviet pilot, carrying Russian-language papers, had been found in official quarters in Washington, it is said there's no doubt the downed airman was a Soviet.

Yemen has considerable strategic importance because — along with the neighboring region until recently known as Aden — it dominates the 12-mile-wide southern gateway into the Red Sea.

It has a commanding position on the Suez Canal, linking the Mediterranean and the Indian oceans. The canal has been closed since the June war between Israel and the Arab states but is expected to be reopened eventually.

Washington authorities say privately they can't recall conflict similar to that in Yemen in which Soviet pilots have played

U.S. Jobless Rate Shows Declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national unemployment rate fell four points in November, the sharpest drop in more than six years, the Labor Department reported today.

The jobless rate of 3.9 per cent last month reversed the upward trend in unemployment during September and October and returned the over-all rate to the range that has prevailed since late 1965.

The seasonally adjusted total of unemployed in November dropped to 2.9 million, which countered the downward trend usually occurring during the month.

The unemployment rate in November last year was 3.5 per cent.

Officials Involved in Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — Three New York City detectives, a federal narcotics agent and two investigators for the Nassau County district attorney have been arrested on charges of selling narcotics.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgensthan said Tuesday the six were named in three indictments returned by a grand jury during a continuing investigation of narcotics traffic.

All were assigned to combat trafficking in narcotics and they had accumulated outstanding records as undercover agents. Morgensthan said the suspects' activities hit at the very foundation of the anti-narcotics program.

They were charged with having dealt in narcotics in the vicinity of the Supreme Court in Mineola, N.Y., on the streets of the Bronx and Harlem and in a Long Island motel.

This reported involvement of Soviet Giers, using Soviet-made planes and supported by Soviet ground crews—is considered here to reflect Moscow's desire to establish power positions in the Middle East, once the exclusive domain of Western interests.

The possibility of Soviet fighter participation was raised a few days ago when a Royalist information minister said the body of a Soviet pilot, carrying Russian-language papers, had been found in official quarters in Washington, it is said there's no doubt the downed airman was a Soviet.

Yemen has considerable strategic importance because — along with the neighboring region until recently known as Aden — it dominates the 12-mile-wide southern gateway into the Red Sea.

It has a commanding position on the Suez Canal, linking the Mediterranean and the Indian oceans. The canal has been closed since the June war between Israel and the Arab states but is expected to be reopened eventually.

Washington authorities say privately they can't recall conflict similar to that in Yemen in which Soviet pilots have played

Pioneer 8 Slated for Two Orbits

By JIM STROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Beaming back strong signals to earth, a robot "Interplanetary weatherman" named Pioneer 8 rocketed into orbit around the sun today to help weave a network that could warn astronauts of deadly solar radiation storms in space.

En route to the sun-circling path between that of earth and Mars, Pioneer 8's fiery delta booster rocket successfully kicked a radio-relay communications satellite into orbit around earth to be used for testing America's man-to-the-moon tracking network.

If all experiments operate as planned during the next six months or more, drum-shaped Pioneer 8 could provide the best information yet on how great a danger the sun's radiation poses to astronauts. It also possibly could lead to a foolproof means of predicting when dangerous flares will explode on the sun so manned flights can be scheduled around them.

Meanwhile, the eight-sided communications payload — a so-called TTS for test and training satellite — was to act as an orbital relay station to exercise America's Apollo man-in-space global tracking network. Scientists packed the TTS in the engine compartment of the three-stage Delta's second stage so it could spring free into Earth orbit while the upper stage propels Pioneer 8 into a sun-circling path.

TTS was designed to receive Earth-to-space signals on the same radio frequency used in Apollo manned flights, while returning signals to ground tracking stations on frequencies which will be used to report spacecraft and astronaut status during an actual mission.

Pioneer 8 was to team up with other radiation-studying spacecraft already operating, including Pioneer 6 located 144 million miles ahead of Earth and Pioneer 7, which is trailing this planet by about 68 million miles, to study solar events from different points in space.

Man-to-the-moon planners are primarily interested in the solar wind, a great radiation storm that blows constantly through space. The phenomena, caused by huge thermonuclear reactions called solar flares beneath the seething surface of the sun, send huge clouds of radiation particles streaking through space at more than a million miles an hour.

About 50,000 miles in space on the sunlit side of Earth, particles from this wind smash into Earth's magnetic field and form the Van Allen radiation belt. Without this protection, life could probably not survive on this planet.

Investigation has revealed that an escapee who left Cummins Prison Farm last week drove away in a car he purchased from a prison warden, Bob Scott said Tuesday.

Scott, the governor's aide on prison affairs, said Paul Anderson bought the used car from Roy Deam, a prison warden.

Anderson, Carl W. Corder and Merwin R. Huffman were captured in Malvern less than two hours after they left the prison early Dec. 5. They had been ordered to repair a pump at the prison dairy.

Reports of the escape indicated that the three left in a stolen car.

Transfer of the title to the car was notarized by C. R. Wimberly, assistant business manager at Cummins. He said he believed the transfer was notarized two or three weeks ago.

Scott said the car had been parked at the dairy beside the residence of Warden Willie Coleman, who had agreed to keep it there until Anderson was granted a meritorious furlough.

American War Deaths in Vietnam Stand at 15,265 as of Now

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten states topped by California account for more than half the U.S. battle deaths after 81 months of Vietnam fighting, a Pentagon tabulation shows.

Leading in war deaths according to computer records are California, the most populous state, with 1,289, New York 988, Pennsylvania 814, Texas 789 and Rounding out the first 10 are Ohio 699, Michigan 584, Florida 459, New Jersey 397 and Indiana 377.

These states combine for 7,099 of the nation's 13,634 deaths listed as a result of hostile action in Southeast Asia between Jan. 1, 1961 and last Sept. 30, the last computer run available.

War deaths stood at 15,265 as of last Saturday.

In addition to the first 10, another 15 states have given up 200 or more men to the conflict. All the other states also have posted losses ranging down to Alaska's 10.

Vietnam combat deaths also are listed for Guam, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico.

The basis for determining state losses is the serviceman's home of record, which may or may not be his birthplace. In most cases this is his native home but some servicemen list as homes of record their parent's current home or the military bases where wives remain.

For all practical purposes the home-of-record system is regarded as relatively accurate in indicating the various state losses.

There has been only a slight change in the ranking order of the states with the largest number of deaths since the first breakdown was made available last spring. Illinois moved barely ahead of Ohio as the No. 5 state.

California also tops the non-hostile death category with 227 out of an over-all total of 2,705 dead through September. The nonhostile tabulation includes such causes as accident plane crashes, truck wrecks, explosions, fires, drownings and other incidents not connected with enemy activities.

Behind California in nonhostile deaths are New York 195, Texas 176, Pennsylvania 173, Illinois 148 and Ohio 133.

The next 15 states according to numbers of hostile deaths are:

Alabama 303, Georgia 352, Kentucky 256, Louisiana 200, Maryland 246, Massachusetts 346, Minnesota 224, Missouri 309, North Carolina 366, Oklahoma 208, South Carolina 213, Tennessee 332, Virginia 294, Washington 258 and Wisconsin 250.

MARKET

Boxed goods and hanging clothes are part of this woman's selling empire in Miami.

Depending on what you might want, you'll find nothing more enjoyable than open-air marketing, where friends and neighbors come to sell, buy or swap anything from kittens to "cal", a tenderizer for boiling corn kernels.

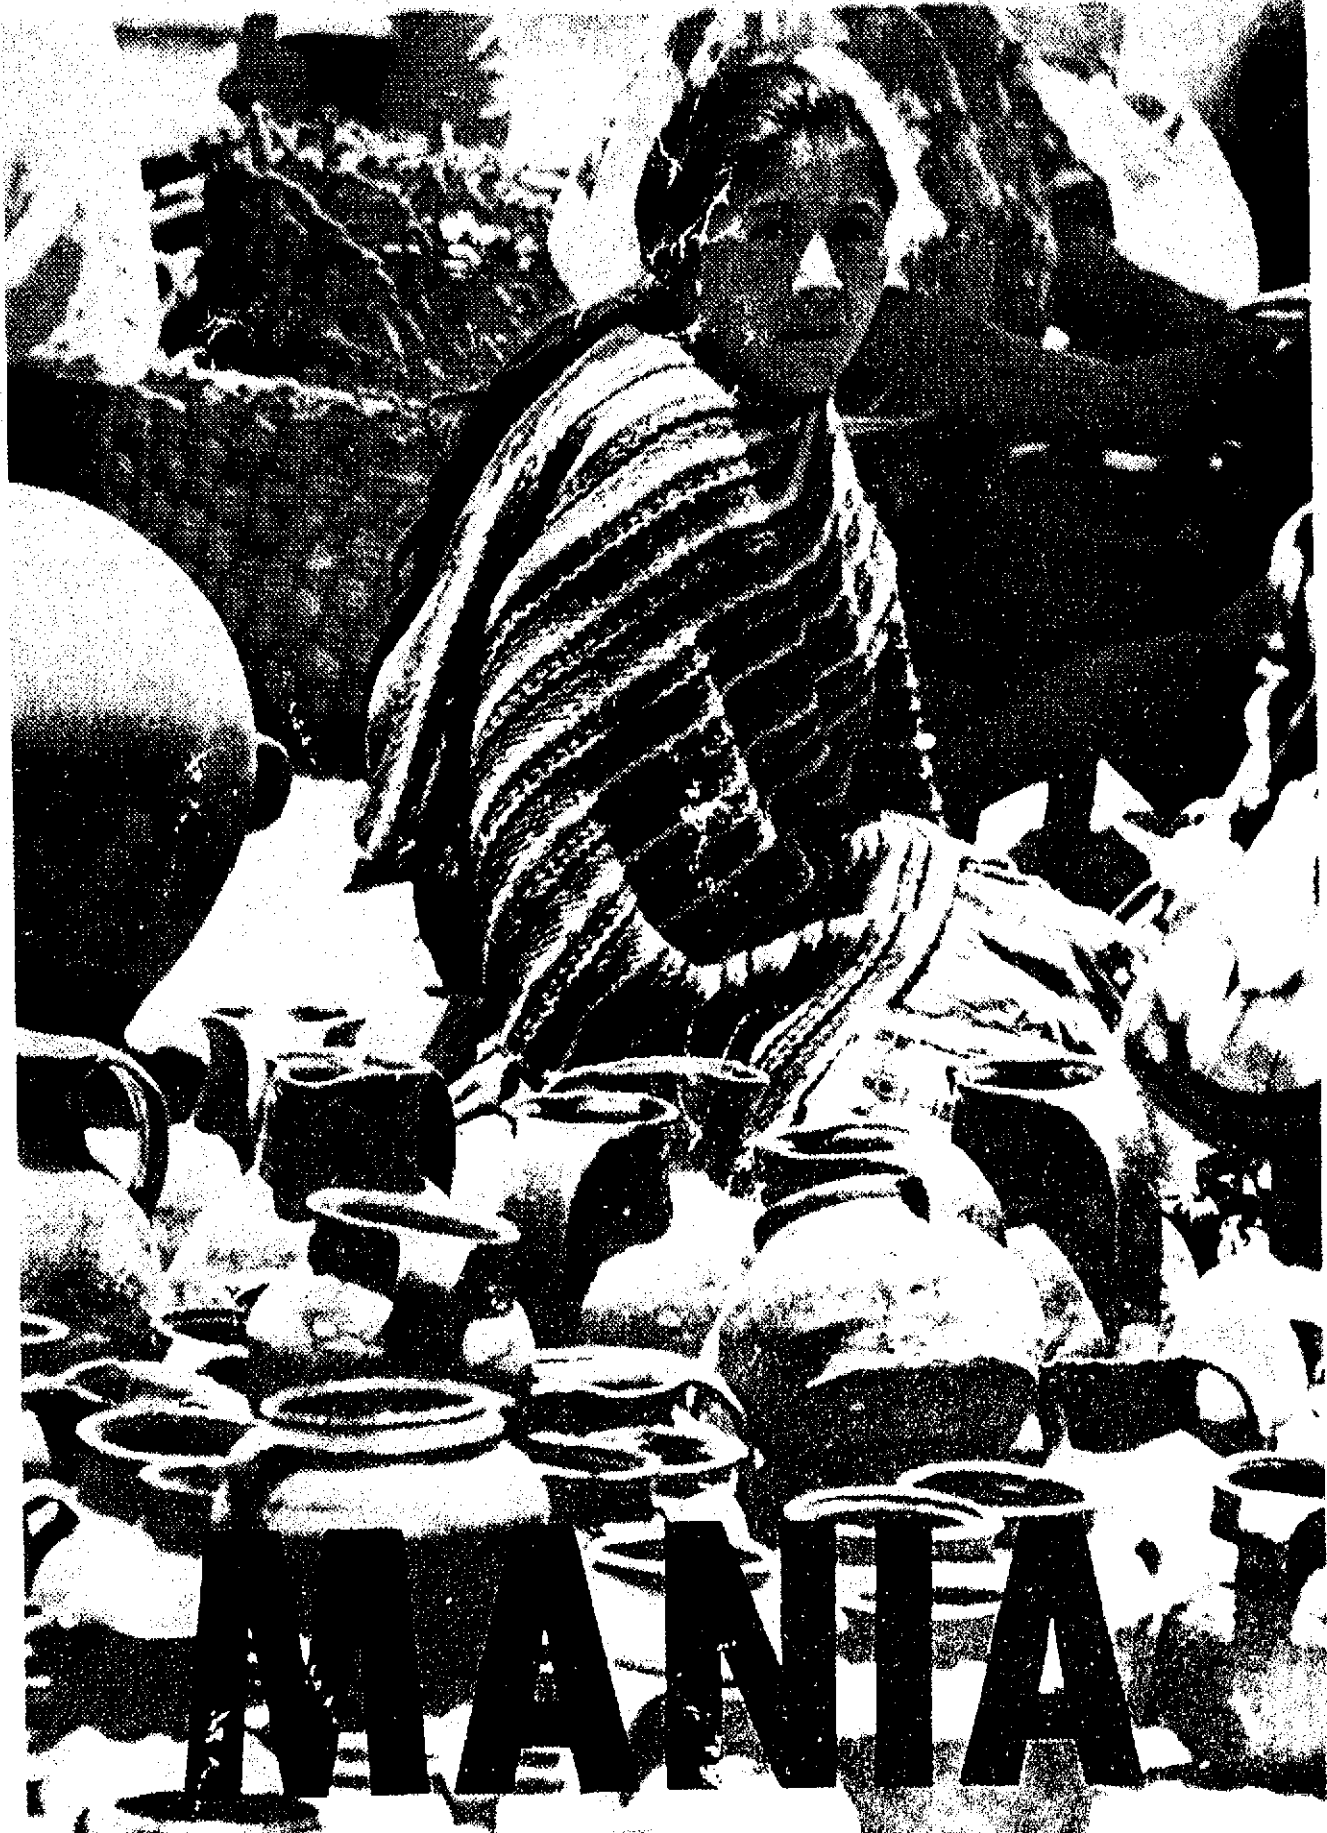

From Paris to Podunk, you get something found nowhere else at a better price. That is, if you can haggle proficiently with the salesman behind the goods.

For all the variation of selling the goods, the theme is still the same: have a good time. Be it the "Swap Meet" in a Miami, Florida, drive-in theater, which takes in 7,000 people per day, or the Mayan market at Chicicastenango, Guatemala, where temporary and permanent stalls jam the town square, it is a pleasant way to spend a day.

Sellers sit back to wait for business, keeping eyes open while tourists, townsfolk or rural residents pick, prod and ponder the offerings.

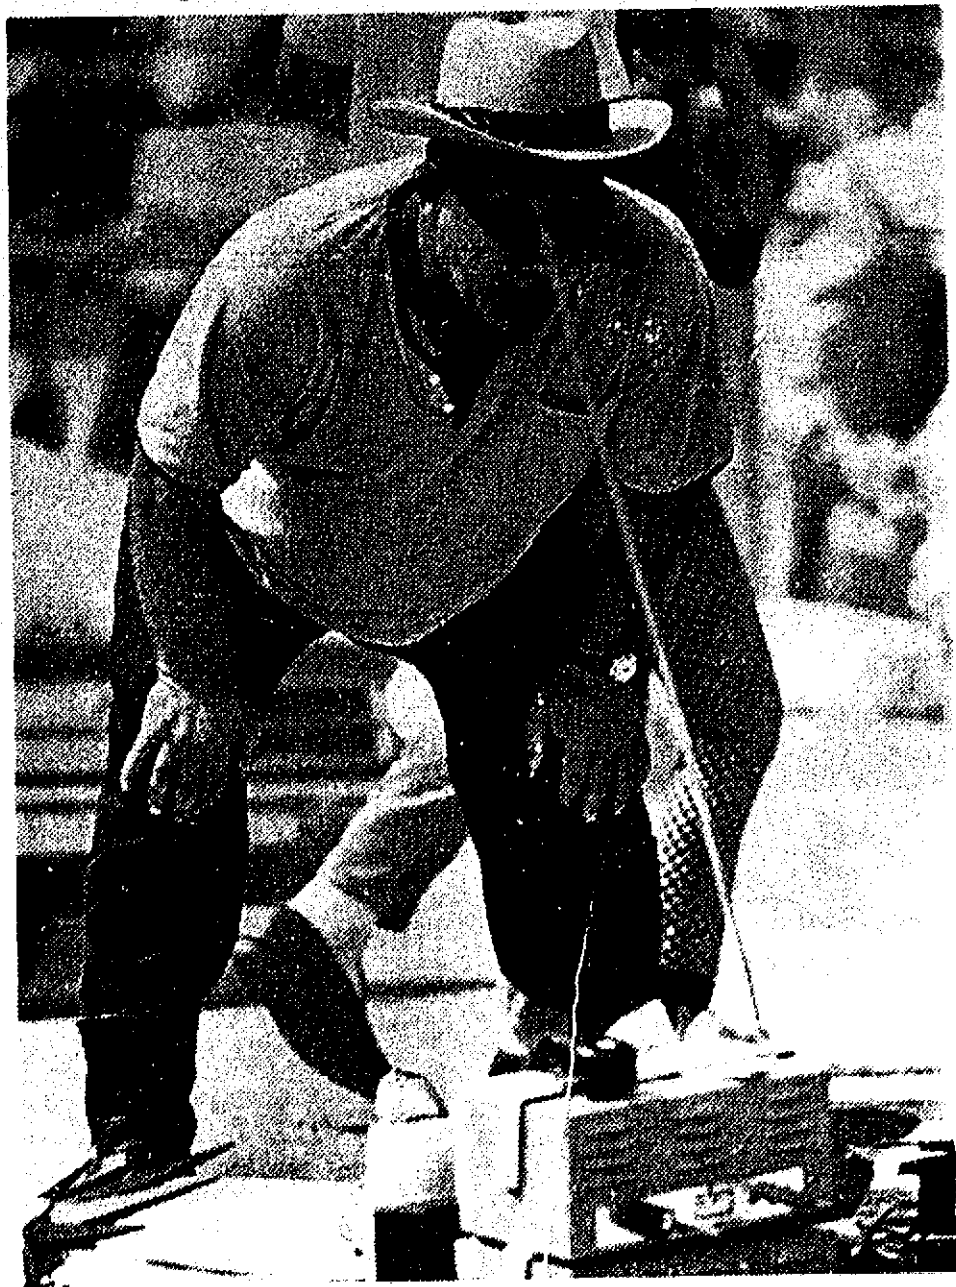

Buyers wander in in seemingly aimless fashion, ears open to a sales pitch, eyes sweeping everything with, hopefully, a professional eye.

When day ends and the stalls close down, the goods are packed for taking home, by a one-year-old cat or a one-year-old donkey. You know you've had a new experience in shopping fun at the open-air markets spread over the face of the world.
